ITEM 4: SERVICES, FEES AND COMPENSATION

Portfolio Management Services

We offer tactically-managed portfolios through the Select Money Management, Inc. Advisor Managed Portfolios Wrap Fee Program (the “Program”). We serve as sponsor and investment manager for the Program, which is a fee-only investment management program offered on a discretionary basis. This Program is based on our proprietary tactical asset allocation methodology. Portfolios are created using strategies primarily consisting of mutual funds, exchange-traded funds (ETFs), individual stocks, and/or other listed securities. We will recommend your portfolio allocation based on our understanding of your specific financial circumstances, anticipated future financial needs, investment goals, return objectives, investment horizon, and risk tolerance. Acting in a limited discretionary capacity, we will choose when to execute any trade for your benefit and risk. The portfolios offered under the Program require a minimum of $100,000 of investable assets. We may waive the minimum requirements at our discretion.

When you engage in our portfolio management services under our Program, your assets will be held in custody at AssetMark Trust who employs Fidelity Brokerage, LLC and National Financial Services, LLC (collectively, “Fidelity”) as its sub-custodian to provide certain custodial and brokerage services. Fidelity is a member of both the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) and the New York Stock Exchange. Select Money Management, Inc. (“SMM”) is not affiliated with AssetMark Trust or Fidelity.

Prior to engaging us to provide our services you will be required to enter into a Portfolio Management Services Agreement setting forth the terms and conditions under which we will provide our services. By its terms, you will grant us limited discretionary authority to manage the assets held in your account through the purchase, sale, exchange, redemption, conversion, or other disposition of investments, income, or proceeds deposited and held in your account.

Fees

Our standard Program fee schedule is as follows:

Tactical Profiles	Profile 1	Profile 2	Profile 3	Profile 4	Profile 5	Profile 6
Risk	Conservative	Moderately Conservative	Moderate	Moderate Growth	Moderately Aggressive	Aggressive
Est. Equity Allocation	0 - 29%	30% - 44%	45% - 59%	60% - 74%	75% - 89%	90% - 100%
Fee	1.00%	1.25%	1.50%	1.70%	1.90%	2.00%

The Program fee includes such services as investment management, securities transaction costs, the custodian's monthly reports, account servicing, and continuous account management.

We may negotiate any of our fees, taking into consideration such variables as the size of your account, the number of managed portfolios, your relationship with other clients, the length of our relationship with you, the complexity of your personal circumstances, the composition of your portfolio, the complexity of investment strategies, the frequency of desired meetings or special reporting, and other factors that affect our cost of providing services for you. For these reasons, our fees may vary among clients who may have a similar amount of assets under our management. In any event, we disclose your specific fee in your Portfolio Management Services Agreement. We may from time to time unilaterally amend our fees and billing arrangements. Any increase in our fee schedule will only become effective after 30-days prior written notice to existing clients.

Advisory fees on your accounts are assessed by AssetMark at the beginning of the quarter (January, April, July, and October), using the market value of your account on the last business day of the previous quarter end. These fees are deducted directly from your account within 5-10 business days after being assessed. In addition to the quarterly billing cycle, AssetMark also calculates fees on new money added to your new or existing account during the quarter. These advisory fees are deducted directly from your account within 5-10 business days after being assessed. When you close an account on the platform, any advisory fees paid in advance are eligible for refund. The amount refunded will be pro-rated based on your account termination date and will be posted to your account by the 5th business day of the month following termination.

Compensation

The firm receives a portion of the Program fee, as does your investment advisor representative, which may be an incentive to your advisory representative to recommend this Program over other programs or services. According to the Program Fee schedule above, the firm receives between .90% and 1.90% and the investment advisor representatives receive approximately 40% of what the firm receives. The amount of this compensation may or may not be more than what they would receive if you paid separately for investment advice, brokerage, and other services. To mitigate this conflict, we and our representatives are bound to act solely in your best interest including when advising on investment programs and fee arrangements. You may be able to receive comparable services from other investment advisors and pay fees that are higher or lower than those under our Program.

Mutual Funds Expenses and Share Classes

Many mutual funds are offered with more than one type of fee structure, commonly known as “share classes”. Share classes differ in terms of what fees and expenses are deducted from the mutual fund’s pooled investment assets, since these fees and expenses are usually not billed separately to each mutual fund shareholder. While there are a variety of fees investors may encounter when purchasing a mutual fund, common fees or expenses include management fees paid to the fund’s investment manager, operating expenses used to pay for the day-to-day costs incurred to operate the mutual fund, and distribution fees (known as “12b-1” fees) used to promote, advertise, or compensate financial professionals for aiding in sales of a mutual fund.

Though not all mutual fund shares classes include each of the fees or expenses described here, what remains consistent is that a mutual fund’s share class with a lower total annual expense, as compared to another share class of the same fund, can result in a significant difference in investment returns over time. It is typical for mutual funds to set certain eligibility requirements, such as minimum investment amounts, for an investor to qualify for purchasing a lower cost share class. You can learn more about a specific mutual fund’s available share classes and the fees, loads, expenses, and eligibility requirements by reading the mutual fund’s prospectus. In addition, we encourage you to ask your representative about the fees and expenses associated with mutual funds you currently own or those presented to you.

The firm is dependent upon AssetMark Trust and Fidelity for its custody, clearing, and execution services for the Program. In addition, Fidelity has agreements in place with mutual fund distributors in order for the firm’s investment advisory clients to have access to mutual funds for the Program. While Fidelity has these agreements in place with a large variety of mutual fund sponsors, not all mutual funds are available through Fidelity. Also, many mutual funds offer different share classes, often for the same fund, representing different fee and expense structures paid by shareholders of a fund. Certain classes of shares may not be available through Fidelity and consequently the firm’s clients may not have access to a lower costing share class otherwise available to investors directly from the fund, a different clearing firm, or other financial intermediary. This limitation could result in our clients purchasing and/or holding a more expensive share class of a mutual fund thereby reducing investment returns.

Despite our reasonable efforts, there is no guarantee that you will always be in the most cost advantageous share class. Consequently, for any type of mutual fund investment, it is important for you to understand that you are directly and indirectly paying two levels of advisory fees and expenses: one layer of fees at the fund level and one layer of fees to us.

Other Fees and Expenses Not Included in the Program Fee

Custodial costs not included in the Program fee include but are not limited to: custodial IRA annual maintenance fees, custodial termination fees, SEC activity assessment fees, federal funds wire transfer fees and overnight check delivery fees. You will be responsible to pay any redemption fees such as mutual fund contingent deferred sales charges otherwise known as “back-end loads” that may be imposed by a mutual fund company upon liquidation. These charges will be netted from the applicable securities transactions or deducted from your account and will appear on your periodic account statements, as and when applicable.

ITEM 5: ACCOUNT REQUIREMENTS AND TYPES OF CLIENTS

Account Requirements

The portfolios offered under the Program require a minimum of $100,000 of investable assets. We may waive the minimum requirements at our discretion.

Types of Clients

We provide portfolio management services to individuals, high net worth individuals, businesses, corporate pension and profit-sharing plans, trusts, charitable institutions, foundations, and endowments.

ITEM 6: PORTFOLIO MANAGER SELECTION AND EVALUATION

Advisory Business

We are the portfolio manager and sponsor for all accounts in our Program. We also offer investment management services to identify, monitor, and manage unaffiliated third-party investment managers (sometimes referred to as “Managing the Managers”). We also act as solicitor for and offer advice about other wrap fee programs sponsored by unaffiliated investment advisors (also known as, third-party wrap fee programs). If you use the services of an unaffiliated third-party investment manager or advisor, you will enter into a separate written agreement setting forth the terms and conditions of your engagement with them, describing the scope of services and related fees.

Performance-Based Fees and Side-By-Side Management

We do not charge any performance-based fees (fees based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of your assets). Also, the firm does not utilize the side-by-side management approach.

Methods of Analysis

When advising you about your investments or managing your account, we typically use several methods to analyze the securities that we may select for your investment portfolio, including fundamental and technical analysis. We also consider cyclical factors affecting some industries and companies more than others. We also consider factors such as the strength of the company’s or mutual fund’s management team.

Fundamental Analysis is a technique that attempts to determine a security's value by focusing on the economic well-being of a company, as opposed to movements of its market price. In the course of our analysis, we will review a company's financial statements and consider factors including, but not limited to, the company's historical financial condition, prior operating results and trends, its projected revenue growth, its competitive advantages and disadvantages, the anticipated demand for its current and future products or services, the age and nature of its assets, and other factors affecting the company's anticipated results from future operations. Past performance does not assure similar future performance. A company's fundamental value can be adversely affected by many factors unrelated to its actual operating performance.

Technical Analysis is another method to evaluate potential investments. Unlike fundamental analysis, technical analysis does not analyze the company's value, but instead analyzes the movement of stock prices in the market, both individually and within an industry or sector of the economy. Technical analysis studies the supply and demand in the market in an attempt to determine historical and future trends. Notwithstanding favorable market price movements, a company's financial condition and other unique factors can adversely affect its value. Technical analysis relies upon stock movements and volume reflected in historical stock charts, often compared with various market benchmarks.

Cyclical Factors are relevant to some industries and some company's stocks more than others. A cyclical industry or stock is generally more sensitive to our economy's business cycle. Business cycles are the recurring and fluctuating levels of economic activity that our economy experiences over a period of several years. The five stages of the business cycle are growth (expansion), peak, recession (contraction), trough, and recovery. Business cycles vary in frequency, magnitude and duration. The revenue for cyclical industries and stocks are generally higher in periods of economic prosperity and expansion and lower in periods of economic downturn and contraction. Some industries and stocks tend to be counter-cyclical. The revenue for counter-cyclical industries and stocks tend to be negatively correlated to the overall state of the economy. A counter-cyclical stock's price will tend to move in a direction that is opposite to the general economic trend.

We obtain information from a number of sources, both public and by purchase, including financial newspapers and magazines, inspection of corporate activities, research materials prepared by third-parties, corporate rating services, annual reports, prospectuses, reports filed with the SEC, and company press releases. We believe these resources are reliable and we regularly depend on these resources for making our investment decisions.

Investment Profiles

The following is a general summary of the investment profiles within the Program. The goal of each profile is to match investors' risk tolerance with an appropriate portfolio.

Profile 1

Risk Level: Conservative

Portfolios within Profile 1 are appropriate for an investor that values protecting principal over seeking appreciation. These portfolios use investment strategies that seek to achieve very low volatility while also accepting lower returns. Portfolios within Profile 1 seek to achieve their goals with an equity allocation maintained within the 0% - 29% range.

Profile 2

Risk Level: Moderately Conservative

Portfolios within Profile 2 are appropriate for an investor that values principal preservation but is comfortable accepting a small degree of risk and volatility to seek some amount of appreciation. These portfolios use investment strategies that seek to achieve low volatility while also accepting minimal losses in search of returns beyond conservative portfolios. Portfolios within Profile 2 seek to achieve their goals with an equity allocation maintained within the 30% - 44% range.

Risk Level: Moderate

Portfolios within Profile 3 are appropriate for an investor that values reducing risks and enhancing returns nearly equally. These portfolios use investment strategies that accept modest risks and volatility to seek moderate returns. Portfolios within Profile 3 seek to achieve their goals with an equity allocation maintained within the 45% - 59% range.

Profile 4

Risk Level: Moderate Growth

Portfolios within Profile 4 are appropriate for an investor that values higher long-term appreciation and is willing to accept larger short-term losses of principal. These portfolios use investment strategies that accept considerable risks and volatility to seek higher returns. Portfolios within Profile 4 seek to achieve their goals with an equity allocation maintained within the 60% - 74% range.

Profile 5

Risk Level: Moderately Aggressive

Portfolios within Profile 5 are appropriate for an investor that values very high long-term appreciation beyond the protection of principal. These portfolios use investment strategies that accept significant risk and volatility to seek very high returns. Portfolios within Profile 5 seek to achieve their goals with an equity allocation maintained within the 75% - 89% range.

Profile 6

Risk Level: Aggressive

Portfolios within Profile 6 are appropriate for an investor that values maximizing appreciation greatly beyond the protection of principal. These portfolios use investment strategies that accept substantial risk to seek maximal returns. Portfolios within Profile 6 seek to achieve their goals with an equity allocation maintained within the 90% - 100% range.

Risk of Loss

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that you should be prepared to bear. Stocks, bonds, mutual funds, variable products, annuities, and other types of investments all bear different types and levels of risk. Upon request, we can discuss the types of investments and investment strategies that we believe may tend to reduce these risks in light of your personal circumstances and financial objectives.

For our Program, we use a proprietary methodology to determine when to buy or sell securities for our portfolios. No assurance can be given that any fee-based portfolio management service will result in profitable investments for you or that you will not incur losses. The results of any fee-based portfolio management service cannot be guaranteed and do not take into consideration the timing of your purchase of any particular security, how long you have held the security, your other investments, or the specific tax consequences of the sale or purchase of any securities. All risk of gain or loss in the investments and all expenses of the account(s) are your sole responsibility.

We provide no guarantee regarding the timing of a trade. While we attempt to execute trades within twenty-four (24) hours of a signal or decision, delays could occur. Processing time delays incurred by the brokerage firms, clearing firms, and custodians are not our responsibility and, in such event, we assume no responsibility for any possible losses. In the event that a trade or exchange is missed with material losses resulting, we assume no responsibility for such losses. You will be required to waive any claim to specific, direct, or consequential damages and agree that your sole remedy shall be either: (1) the refund of the quarterly fee and cancellation of the Agreement, or (2) the account(s) will be managed without charge for a term to be determined by us.

While we seek to design investment strategies to provide appropriate investment diversification, some investments have significantly greater risk than others. Obtaining higher rates of return on investments entails accepting higher levels of risk. Our investment strategies seek to balance risks and rewards to achieve investment objectives. Ask questions about investment risks you do not understand. Our representatives will be able to discuss them with you.

We strive to render our best judgment on behalf of our clients. However, we cannot assure you that investments will be profitable or assure that no losses will occur in an investment portfolio. Past performance is an important consideration with respect to any investment or investment advisor but is not a reliable predictor of future performance. We continuously strive to provide outstanding long-term investment performance, but many economic market variables beyond our control can affect the performance of an investment portfolio.

Generally, common investment-related risks that may affect your investment portfolio include:

- Business risks are associated with a particular company or industry. For example, start-up companies carry greater business risks than established companies. Companies developing new technologies carry greater business risks than manufacturers of well-established or widely-used products and services.
- Financial risks are often associated with the ability of a company to raise capital or finance its operations, as well as its ability to repay indebtedness. Highly-leveraged companies face greater financial risks than well-capitalized companies do.
- Market risks are related to the effects of economic, political, natural disasters, or other events on the price of a publicly-traded stock, bond, exchange-traded fund, or other securities. This type of risk is typically affected by extrinsic factors that often are not related to a particular company's financial condition, performance, or circumstances. For example, investment speculation can materially affect market prices.
- Liquidity risks are associated with an investor's ability to readily convert a security or other asset into cash. Generally, there is greater liquidity for securities that are publicly traded on stock exchanges or trading facilities that match buy and sell orders. Privately offered securities may be highly illiquid because there is little or no trading or market activity.
- Concentration risks result from a lack of investment diversification, which may be expressed in terms of geography, industry, or economic sector. Mutual funds typically invest in a large number of different companies, typically lowering the risk that occurs when the investment consists of only one or a smaller number of companies.
- Options are complex, derivative securities that involve special risks. Option contracts expire at a stated maturity date and have no further value. Unlike traditional securities, the value of an option and the return from holding an option varies with the value of the underlying security from which it derives and other factors.
- Interest rate risks are associated with changes to investment prices due to increasing or decreasing interest rates. For example, when interest rates rise, yields on existing bonds become less attractive, causing their market values to decline. Generally, the principal value of the bond is received upon the particular bond's maturity, even though you may have purchased it at a premium or a discount from its face value. The impact of interest rate changes is different for bonds held inside of a mutual fund or pooled investment where a particular bond is not held until its maturity.

- Inflationary and deflationary risks are associated with the purchasing power of the dollar, which is affected by broad economic, monetary, governmental policies, and the balance of supply and demand for products and services.
- Reinvestment risks are typically related to fluctuations in the potential interest rate at which future investment proceeds may have to be invested. For example, reinvestment risks may increase during periods of falling interest rates. This risk primarily relates to bonds and other fixed income securities.
- ETF-tracking error risk. The ETF's goal is to track a specific market index or asset, normally referred to as "fund target index". The discrepancy between the ETF's performance and the performance of its target index is known as "tracking error". A variety of factors can create a performance gap between an ETF and its target index such as the impact of transaction fees and expenses incurred by the ETF, changes in composition of the underlying index/assets, the ETF manager's replication strategy and sampling techniques, and the timing of purchases and redemptions of fund shares.
- Currency risks are primarily associated with foreign investments. For example, a company's earnings in a foreign country may be affected by fluctuations in the value of the dollar against that foreign currency. Similarly, the investment return of a foreign security may be affected by changes in currency exchange rates.

Voting Client Securities

As a matter of firm policy and practice, we will not be responsible for responding to proxies that are solicited with respect to annual or special meetings of shareholders of securities held in your account. Proxy solicitation materials will be forwarded to you by your custodian for response and voting. If you have any questions about a particular proxy voting matter, please do not hesitate to ask.

ITEM 7: CLIENT INFORMATION PROVIDED TO PORTFOLIO MANAGERS

In order for us and our investment advisor representatives to effectively manage your account and assist in meeting your financial objectives, we ask you to update us as soon as possible when any changes to personal or financial information occur. A complete copy of our Privacy Policy is attached at the end of this Brochure.

ITEM 9: ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Disciplinary Information

As a registered investment advisor, we are required to disclose all material facts regarding any legal or disciplinary events that would be material to your evaluation of our firm or the integrity of our management.

In February 2018, the Securities and Exchange Commission launched an Initiative to address its concerns that investment advisors were not adequately disclosing or acting consistently with the disclosure regarding conflicts of interest related to their mutual fund share class selection practices. The Initiative enabled investment advisory firms to voluntarily participate in the Initiative and to review their practices for the period of 1/1/2014 through 6/30/2018, self-report their findings to the SEC and offer to refund certain mutual fund 12b-1 fees to affected clients.

On March 11, 2019, Select Money Management, Inc. entered into a voluntary settlement agreement with the SEC with respect to the Initiative. As provided under the Initiative, the SEC did not impose penalties against the settling investment advisors or us.

Each of the settling investment advisors, including our firm, consented to cease-and-desist orders finding violations of Section 206(2) and, with respect to SEC registered investment advisors, Section 207 and a censure. The firms, including our firm, also agreed to refund the inadequately disclosed fees, with interest, to affected advisory clients. Each advisor, including our firm, has also undertaken to review and expand the disclosures concerning mutual fund share class selection and 12b-1 fees, and to evaluate whether existing clients should be moved to an available lower-cost share class and move clients, as necessary. Select Money Management, Inc. has completed this review and analysis and implemented all necessary changes.

Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

We are affiliated by common ownership with Select Portfolio Management, Inc. (“SPM”), another investment advisor registered with the SEC. We may refer you to SPM for its advisory services, which include, but are not limited to, investment planning, retirement planning, estate planning, education planning, and asset protection planning. Its services, fees, and additional important information are disclosed in its own firm brochure, which you will receive before engaging in its advisory services. Tony Amaradio, Daniel Amaradio, Semir Amin, Mark Goldsmith, Gary McCarver, and Carin Amaradio are also investment advisor representatives of affiliate SPM and may earn fees on services that they may have recommended.

We are also affiliated by common ownership with broker-dealer, Securities Equity Group, member FINRA and SIPC (“SEG”). SEG acts as a fully disclosed, introducing broker-dealer for National Financial Services, LLC, (“NFS, LLC”) who holds client assets and executes transactions for client accounts. SEG is not affiliated with NFS, LLC. Daniel Amaradio, Semir Amin, Mark Goldsmith, Gary McCarver, and Carin Amaradio are all registered representatives of broker-dealer SEG and may earn commissions on securities transactions that they may have recommended. Commissions may be higher or lower at SEG than at other broker-dealers. Our firm and our representatives receive no commission if you choose to purchase securities through a broker-dealer other than SEG.

We are also affiliated by common ownership with SPM Insurance Services, Inc. (“SPMI”), an independent general insurance agency. We may refer you to licensed agents of SPMI for fixed annuity and insurance products. Daniel Amaradio, Mark Goldsmith, Gary McCarver, and Carin Amaradio have insurance licenses and may earn commissions on fixed insurance and annuity products that they may have recommended. Commissions earned on insurance products are typically higher and, in some instances, substantial compared to commissions earned on mutual funds or other securities.

We seek to mitigate these conflicts of interest by disclosing to you the conflicts ahead of time in this Brochure and by seeking to keep your best interest as our focus through monitoring any such recommendations and periodically reviewing them for suitability. Our advisory representatives are also obligated to employ a standard of care and comply with your investment guidelines and restrictions when recommending securities or portfolio management strategies. You are also under no obligation to accept our recommendations with respect to using any of our affiliates for portfolio management, brokerage, or insurance products.

Code of Ethics

We have adopted a Code of Ethics (the “Code”) pursuant to Rule 204A-1 under the Advisors Act describing the standards of business conduct we expect all officers, directors, employees and investment advisory representatives to follow. In summary, the Code prohibits our employees from taking inappropriate advantage of their positions and the access to information concerning the investments or investment intentions of our clients, or their ability to influence such investment intentions, for personal gain or in a manner detrimental to the interests of its clients. Rule 204A-1 makes it unlawful for our employees to engage in conduct which is deceitful, fraudulent, or manipulative, or which involves false or misleading statements in connection with the purchase or sale of securities. The Code acknowledges the general principles that we, along with our employees: (1) owe a fiduciary obligation to its clients, (2) have the duty at all times to place the interests of their clients first, (3) must conduct all personal securities transactions in such a manner as to avoid any actual or potential conflict of interest or abuse of an individual’s position of trust and responsibility, (4) should not take inappropriate advantage of their positions in relation to client accounts, (5) must comply with the federal securities laws, and (6) must safeguard non-public information. The Code also describes certain reporting requirements with which particular individuals associated with or employed by us must comply. We will provide a copy of the Code to any client or prospective client upon request.

Participation or Interest in Client Transactions and Personal Trading

Our employees may, from time to time, buy or sell securities for their own accounts that are the same as, similar to, or the opposite of those that we recommend to you for purchase or sale. Differences can arise due to variations in personal goals, investment horizons, risk tolerance and the timing of purchases and sales. Our Chief Compliance Officer or one of her designees receives and reviews the quarterly brokerage statements belonging to employees for possible conflicts of interest.

Review of Accounts

Reviews- On at least a quarterly basis, and more frequently as we determine, we will review the strategy governing the investments in your account, your account statements, and your account performance. Based upon our periodic reviews, we may make changes in the strategy, and we may place orders for the purchase and sale of securities to implement these changes.

Reviewers- Reviewers include: Tony Amaradio, Daniel Amaradio, Semir Amin, Mark Goldsmith, and Gary McCarver. All representatives are expected to provide review services as specified by our firm and the number of accounts assigned to each representative will vary. Many accounts are reviewed on a regular basis by more than one representative. You are contacted periodically for reviews and interim financial reviews are available upon request.

Client Referrals and Other Compensation

As described above under the heading Advisory Business, we are a solicitor for, and may recommend that you engage the services of, a third-party investment advisor through a wrap fee program. If you do, we will receive a portion of the wrap fee you pay to the program sponsor/manager. Our solicitor's compensation is described in the sponsor's wrap fee brochure and in a solicitor's disclosure statement. You will not pay the program sponsor/manager any additional fees by virtue of our having made the referral and we do not charge any additional fees with respect to your assets invested through a wrap fee program. We will seek to assure that the fees charged to our clients by program sponsors/managers are competitive and consistent with fees charged to that program sponsor's/manager's other clients.

From time to time, we may engage solicitors to market our services. We pay solicitors for their services, as described in a separate solicitor's brochure that you would receive, together with a copy of this firm's brochure, when the solicitor introduces you to our firm. The amount of compensation we pay solicitors is typically a share of the fees you pay us. The amount may vary by solicitor and may vary over time. Our method of computing the solicitor's compensation is described in the solicitor's brochure. Compensation paid or received in connection with these relationships creates potential conflicts of interest that you should carefully consider in evaluating and acting upon our recommendation.

Financial Information

We have no financial liabilities, obligations, or commitment that impairs our ability to meet our contractual and fiduciary commitments to you. We have not been the subject of a bankruptcy proceeding.
